

The Blooming

It isn't that easy for other people to comprehend what is going on. What is it all about this love without demands, this state of consciousness without an emotional self or ego?

But in reality it is very easy. You are there and they are there just as usual, but the exchange between you and them has changed.

There is complete freedom on your side, no conscious or subconscious emotional demands whatsoever. No hidden agendas. No need for defense since there is this complete freedom, complete acceptance of what is.

Therefore other people can blossom. What's hidden can and will come forward, but of course hidden pain will also be set free, pain that has hindered the blooming.