

The receptive mind

Poems come from this state of mind, so you are told. Jesus and Buddha come from this state of mind, so you are told. But where do you come from? Where were you before you were born? You don't know and you should not know the answer to that question. God knows and that's it.

Many of your questions haven't got answers you should know, but Jesus and Buddha were born with you as they are with everyone, that is something you can know and which you should tell everyone who has ears to hear with and eyes to see with.

This is a meeting between the East and West that is of utmost importance to all of us. This is peace of mind, at least the Eastern and Western minds struggling so much these days to find their ways to a more peaceful and harmonious world. Psychological and cultural evolution it might be called, a step on the road towards more globalized minds with less projections and more love towards each other.

This represents earthbound spiritual development of crucial importance to the world of today and tomorrow. Go and tell it as you have been told tonight and before.

This state of mind represents a kind of higher reality that you know of, a reality which permeates you and kills you as you were, an action of love for you and your surroundings. The days have come, in which there shall not be left here one stone upon another that shall not be thrown down.

A new house, a home of the formless mind, is being prepared for you and anyone longing for the formless mind, for the mind of no desires, no greed, for the eternal mind of God, for oneness, for the nondual dimension completely beyond intellect and words.

There you go tonight and forever, you son of Adam and Eve, your founding father and mother that came out of Africa so long ago.

You might call this new mind "the receptive mind" a mind with no ego-blockages, a transparent mind with no projections and therefore a mind capable of receiving reality, the deeper or higher meaning of reality, the timeless dimension so important to know these days as you were told a long time ago.

The mind which your teacher called "the active mind" is developing at high speed these days, a necessary evolutionary step for the mankind confronted with drawbacks of the self-structure developed for so many thousands of years.

The self-structure has reached its "end of game", so it is with you and so many others, a painful and burdensome change, but it has to come whether you wish it or not. This represents an evolutionary power far beyond the ego's capability and understanding.

You just have to accept your own death and follow, so it is. Your will, the will-power of the self, does not exist any more. It is gone, forever, whether you like it or not. You can not understand and should not understand, just follow.
